MARKET SYNOPSIS (Q2 2026)

WORLD

- US growth resilient but labour market softening
- Tariffs may add renewed inflation pressure
- Fed likely to remain cautious with limited scope for cuts
- Earnings growth positive but increasingly uneven
- Geopolitical, energy and trade risks remain high

ASIA

- Asian growth uneven, with energy importers under pressure
- China stimulus helping, but demand remains subdued
- Recovery gradual, not broad-based
- AI hardware winners sharply outperforming the region
- Attractive value remains beyond the AI trade

STRATEGY (Q1 2026)

- Meaningful allocation to equities
- Low allocation to expensive US equities
- Prefer companies with resilient earnings profiles
- Prefer inflation-linked TIPS over nominal US Treasuries
- Physical gold position hedges global risks

ASIA

- Focused on high-quality Asian businesses offering value
- Maintain weight in Chinese equities with resilient fundamentals
- Avoiding highly cyclical, sentiment-driven beneficiaries of AI trade
- Positioned for long-term consumer growth in China
- Attractive combination of quality, growth and value
